Tom DeVesto & Como Audio

Leading consumer electronics Hall of Fame Legend and Visionary Tom DeVesto stayed true to a single-focused mission over the last 40 years, to bring a new experience to the consumer electronics market.

He returns with a new Boston, Massachusetts based company "Como Audio". Here he continues his goal of bringing high performance, vision, design and long lasting products to the music enthusiast. Products that will continue to raise the bar on expectations.

Today music is everywhere and is streamed through so many content sources that keep expanding and evolving. In founding Como Audio, Tom DeVesto's goal was simple: to make it easy to access all of the music content available through one device that would deliver multi-room, true high-fidelity sound in a compact wooden design. Como Audio products are designed to not only produce great room-filling sound, but have the ability to sync music throughout your home with the press of a button. No phone or computer required.

Ambiente

04

Stereophonic sound entails the accurate reproduction of independent left and right audio channels. In that respect, Solo has a secret weapon... the built-in ability to reproduce stereo sound when coupled with Como Audio's Ambiente wired speaker. Nudge Solo's rear switch over to "ST" and connect Ambiente's audio cable to Solo's Speaker output, and you are living large. From that point on, Ambiente will handle the right channel heavy lifting while Solo will dedicate itself to the left channel duties.

Amica

06

Amico may be portable, but it can also be a high-fidelity stereo system. Connect Amico to Amica to double the total output power and create stereo sound. Amica's 15' audio cable puts a good distance between Amico and Amica, resulting in a broad soundstage that opens up your music. Amica also uses the same driver configuration and voicing as Amico, insuring consistent sound from one channel to the other. One listen and we think you'll agree...
